THE NEW DIRECTION CHANEL TOUCH AND PLAY

Pop-up shops, which offer a relaxed environment to play with products, are becoming ever more glamorous. The latest to jump in is Chanel, which is hosting a pop-up in Covent Garden in central London, from July 23 to December 27, and planning a packed agenda that will include live beauty and nail art demonstrations, backstage-style events to reveal secrets such as how they created the make-up for the forthcoming film Anna Karenina, and a fragrance collaboration with one of the local flower stalls. To mark the event, the creative make-up director Peter Philips has designed a Covent Garden look, and you will be able to try products from Chanel's latest limited-edition collection, Blue Illusion. My picks:

Chanel Long Wear Luminous Eyeshadow

in two blues, but for summer it has to be the grey-blue Destination, £23.

Chanel Sky Line Nail Colour
